

Name _____

Rules for Using the Comma 2

- Use a comma to separate the quotation from the rest of the sentence that explains or introduces it.
Angie screamed, "A car is coming!"
- Use a comma inside the last quotation mark in a statement or a command if the quote is at the beginning of the sentence.
"I don't believe a word you are saying," said Don.
- Use a comma to set off an appositive or nonessential phrase.
Timmy, the new kid in school, is a very talented singer.
My favorite teacher, Mr. Nichols, is retiring this year.
- Use a comma after a noun of direct address.
Larry, did you hear what I said?
I need you to go with me, Cindy, or I wouldn't have asked you.

Directions: Edit the following sentences and add commas if needed.

1. Mrs. White the best baker in town is making my birthday cake.
2. "I am not convinced" said Jimmy "but I am willing to give it a try."
3. James are you going to go with me to the store?
4. Susan whined "I don't want to go to the doctor."
5. Penny a long-time friend of mine is coming to visit next month.
6. "I knew that Vinny would not go with us" said Gary.
7. Nancy said "I am leaving in a few minutes."
8. Jimmy I need you to clean your room.

Name _____

Rules for Using the Comma 2

- Use a comma to separate the quotation from the rest of the sentence that explains or introduces it.
Angie screamed, "A car is coming!"
- Use a comma inside the last quotation mark in a statement or a command if the quote is at the beginning of the sentence.
"I don't believe a word you are saying," said Don.
- Use a comma to set off an appositive or nonessential phrase.
Timmy, the new kid in school, is a very talented singer.
My favorite teacher, Mr. Nichols, is retiring this year.
- Use a comma after a noun of direct address.
Larry, did you hear what I said?
I need you to go with me, Cindy, or I wouldn't have asked you.

Directions: Edit the following sentences and add commas if needed.

1. Mrs. White, the best baker in town, is making my birthday cake.
2. "I am not convinced," said Jimmy, "but I am willing to give it a try."
3. James, are you going to go with me to the store?
4. Susan whined, "I don't want to go to the doctor."
5. Penny, a long-time friend of mine, is coming to visit next month.
6. "I knew that Vinny would not go with us," said Gary.
7. Nancy said, "I am leaving in a few minutes."
8. Jimmy, I need you to clean your room.

